

Major DAVE DUDAS is a Major in the United States Army. He is an Assistant Professor of International Relations at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York. Major Dudas' military assignments include service at the Air Defense School, as well as command and staff positions in divisional air defense units, both stateside and overseas, including an operational deployment to Bosnia-Herzegovina in 1996. Major Dudas is an International Relations and Comparative Politics Ph.D. (ABD) from Rutgers University. Recently Major Dudas published a report on U.S. Public Diplomacy, entitled: Nature of the Public Diplomacy Challenge, which can be viewed on the Eisenhower National Security Studies website and the United States Military Academy's Senior Conference website. He is currently writing his doctoral thesis on the evolution of American Army Doctrine post war era, focusing on cognitive and cultural explanations for doctrinal change. He is married and has three children.